

Thanks for downloading this; it's free and should never be sold or used without permission.

Note that the title is "Portland, OR", although it's commonly known as "Hung Far Low", having been documented as such in the past. The album cover is a coaster from the long-gone and sadly missed Hung Far Low restaurant & bar, which was Jack's favorite watering hole in Portland back in the day.

Digging through his vast archives, Mike Gangloff figures these recordings were mainly made in 2000, with a few dating back to 1999. It was put together in late 2001 as a CD-R to be sold at shows. Only a dozen or so copies were made at the time.

Thanks to all the usual suspects: Cory from Three Lobed Records for handling Jack's estate; Mike, Pat, Mikel and Nathan plus anyone Pelt or Black Twigs-adjacent for all the usuals; Liam Grant for bugging my ass and getting it in gear; Laurie for obvious reasons.

This one's dedicated to Cory Rayborn for tons of support & help and the go-forwards.

Originally mastered in 2001; remastered, etc. in 2021 by Rob V. at The Sound-O-Mat. This is SOM #13.

Jack Rose
Portland, OR

1. I'm So Glad (1:57)
2. Nobody's Business (1:48)
3. Jug Band Freaks (3:24)
4. Poor Boy (3:05)
5. Desperate Man Blues (3:52)
6. In Christ There is No East or West (2:29)
7. Sunflower Blues (4:15)*

* Mike Gangloff on banjo, Pat Best on chord organ